Somebody saw that comet—Bob Ray has proof

Vol. VI, No. 44 10 Cents November 10, 1965

Carmel Valley Outlook

The Sheriff's Department didn't really believe Bob Ray when he drove through the Village and up to the school playground last Wednesday at 4 a.m. He told them he was going to photograph the comet but they were skeptical. The proof is here....

Bob photographed it with a 25 minute exposure and the picture shows the satellite trail through the center in addition to the 22 degree long tail of the comet.

Bob had a home-made astrographic camera mount on a tripod with a spotting telescope and a hand pulley to keep the camera focused on the locating star during the long exposure. In order to operate the mechanism he had to lie on the ground during the process and at 4:30 in the morning, this got pretty chilly!

The comet is moving through the two constellations of Corvus and Crater and Bob says it could be easily seen in the clear morning sky in the southeast.

Clean-up drive great success

If the pristine look of the Carmel Valley is any indication, Saturday's Clean-Up Drive must have been a tremendous success.

According to Mrs. Robert Jones, chairman of the drive, at least 100 Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts, Campfire Girls and Bluebirds helped in the trash collection. One of the largest amounts of cans, glass, pieces of metal and pipes was collected in the river area near Rosie's Bridge.

Warren Douglas of Carmel Valley Disposal Service who donated their services for pickup of trash said that it varied from rusty 50 gallon oil drums to many bags of paper. Most of the junk which his truck collected was from the Upper Valley and the majority of that from the Village area.

While there is still a little here and there, the Valley certainly looks much more attractive with the major amount of litter gone. We could hope that perhaps people will try to keep it that way and not start immediately to toss the beer cans again.

Joan Baez closes deal on school property

Escrow on property purchased by Joan Baez for the operation of her Institute for the Study of Non-Violence has been completed according to Mr. Pat Gleason of Coast Counties Land Title Company in Monterey. She now holds legal title to the former So Help Me Hannah property.

Miss Baez purchased the land and buildings outright, not on option pending granting of the use permit.

SEVENTH GRADER Kim Buchenroth had an able helper in her German Shepherd Gina who spent the day retrieving empty beer cans that had been tossed into the river bottom. This was no set-up...Gina really did her share of work in Saturday's cleanup campaign.

Baez school ordered closed pending appeal decision

Supervisors set hearing for Nov. 30, 2 pm

Although the Institute for the Study of Non-Violence received its use permit from Bob Slimmons of the planning board, subject only to compliance with county health standards in the event that food would be served to students, the actual classroom activities will be curtailed as of tomorrow.

William Stoffers, county counsel, advised that until the appeal is acted upon, the school must stop operation as of Thursday, November 11. He declined opinion on the legality of the group continuing seminars which are considered discussion groups. Other legal opinion has been that these activities do not require a use permit.

Last week the office of building inspection conducted an on the spot investigation and found some work necessary on the building. No structural changes have been indicated for the building, which, although old, is in excellent condition.

A stairway in the rear section requires about $250 worth of termite repair, several electrical outlets must be changed, a door which had been weather-stripped-shut must be opened, exit signs must be posted and bathrooms painted to a height of four feet with a glossy material, according to the report from the school.

CV Chamber election set

The Carmel Valley Chamber of Commerce has mailed ballots for their forthcoming elections to elect ten board of directors. Secretary, Mrs. Don Sweiss, has announced that these ballots must be returned no later than November 17.

On that evening a dinner meeting will be held at the Carmel Valley Inn. Social hour will begin at 6:30 with dinner served at 8 p.m. Mrs. Sweiss will contact all members by telephone for reservations.

Ship artist speaks at Middle School

Hans Skaalegard, an artist specializing in sailing ships who recently moved to Carmel from the Bay area, will speak at the Middle School this afternoon to 5th and 8th graders and on another date to other students. An exhibit will also be shown of his drawings of sailing ships, on which he actually served.

Corrections For Holiday Foods And Fancies

In my haste to get the recipes ready for the Holiday Foods and Fancies program for the Carmel Valley Women's Club, there wasn't time to proof read and several mistakes were made. Will ladies who purchased the recipe books please check them and make the following corrections:

PAELLENTA: 16 chicken legs should be substituted for 16 second joints.

The final instructions should read "uncovered" when the casserole is returned to the oven.

YULE LOG: Make a pattern like a tree trunk, not a pineapple.

WHITE VELVET dessert: VITAL correction: colander should be non-metal and should be lined with cheesecloth, not cheese.

SALAD DRESSING: Remove only the tired ends of green onions.

DRESSING FOR TURKEY: Just above the line on freezing, add "stir in melted butter."

PERSIMMON BOMBE: Store in non-metal container.

MOLE SAUCE: Add 1/2 cup of almonds.

SLIVERED ZUCHINI: Cook just a moment until crispy done.

Over 400 attend CV Women's Club benefit

Over 400 women crowded the Golf and Country Club for the Carmel Valley Women's Club benefit, "Holiday Foods and Fancies."

The number of ladies attending far outnumbered the number of reservations made and the line of those waiting to go through the scrumptious salad buffet was very long.

Copies of special holiday menus and recipes from Mrs. Stanton's collection also pleased the party goers. (However there were some typographical errors in the recipes which couldn't be corrected because of lack of time. Mrs. Stanton has listed these for the information of all who have copies of the recipe folder. See her notice at left - - and be sure to tell others who might miss it.)

During the luncheon period Mrs. Paul Morenz, Mrs. David Ayres and Mrs. Mark Field circulated through the crowds modeling originals of the knit suits which would be made to order for the lucky winner.

Mrs. Vernon Gross of Salinas was the holder of the winning ticket.

Mrs. Field was thrilled with the success of the venture saying, "It was even better than we had hoped for. The party was such a tremendous success that I am sure we will have $1000 to donate to the Community Center.

CV Women's Club raises $1,000

MRS. FRANK PORTER served a stint as waitress at the Carmel Valley Women's Club "Holiday Foods and Fancies" benefit luncheon and lecture. Jett's efficiency almost brought her an employment offer from the Golf and Country Club. Hardworking club members helped hostess over 400 women who came to the event which raised an estimated $1000 for the Valley Community Center.

Plan Com continues to Nov. 24

Valley Advisory Board OKs revised plans for Bogart's new Los Laureles Hill Subdivision

Approval of the Los Laureles Hill subdivision was recommended by the Upper Valley Advisory Board after a two hour meeting last Wednesday. Lawrence Bogart presented his revised map and plans for the development to the five members of the board who attended.

Recommendation was on a 4-1 vote with Paul Porter, Lou Allaire, Jack Uzzell and Mel Blevens voting in favor and Corene Smith casting the negative vote.

In the last Planning Commission agenda which was packed with controversial Carmel Valley applications, the first to be considered was the Diamond N. subdivision request for zoning change. Beginning objections to the revised subdivision map submitted by Mr. Bogert came over the use of a common "driveway" of 50 feet serving three panhandle type lots near the top of the subdivision. Located on the Los Laureles grade hill in an area that would be clearly visible from throughout the Valley, the applicant requested no county standard road because of hil - side scarring.

At this point a number of Valley residents, raised strong objection to the character of the subdivision itself. The adjoining area, Los Ranchitos, is basically a three acre minimum area of very rural character. The residents felt that the one acre plans for Los Laureles Hills were comparable to a tract development in one of the lovliest sections of the Valley.

Appearing before the commission in protest were Dorothy Capon, Marsha Kuster Rider, in behalf of her mother, Mrs. Marguerite Grundig, and attorney Malcom Millard appearing for the Marion Shand and adjoining properties.

Col. St. E.P. Tyner, speaking for the CVPOA questioned the quality of soil absorption for the proposed amount of dwellings. Col. Tyner stated, "You are concerned with a sewage problem in Carmel Valley and we would hate to see you aggrevate something for which we do not yet have an answer. He requested a continuance.

It was pointed out that winter streams and natural drain age patterns would provide a swampy condition on the lower lots further adding to percolation problems. The original subdivision map had called for 58 lots on 63.6 acres with some lots falling under an acre in size. The revised lot plan utilized 43 lots and established the minimum lot size as one acre or more. Several Commissioners shared the opinion of neighboring property owners that a transition area of larger lots near the boundries of three acre minimum would be advislable.

Commissioner Cailloto concurred reminding Mr. Bogert that the trend of thinking in Carmel Valley is toward larger lot sizes rather than the minimum.

Acting chairman Ed Marcucci suggested that Bogert submit his revised plans to the Upper Valley Advisory Board who wished to reconsider them and a continuance to November 24. was voted, with assurance to Mr. Bogert that a final decision be made at that time.

The request by Granite Construction Company, through Robert Adkins, for removal of large amounts of natural materials from the Carmel River bed at River Ranch also met with considerable opposition from Valley residents, the State Fish and Game Department and the Upper Valley Advisory Board. The company desires to use the construction materials for roads in the Rancho Fiesta development.

The commissioners voted to continue the matter until the November 24 meeting.

Talcott urges tolerance in Baez School issue

BURT TALCOTT

Congressman Burt Talcott told the Outlook during a visit last week that he felt the local opposition to the Joan Baez school served to make it more of an issue than it warrented. He compared the situation to the time Emerson College wished to locate in Pacific Grove and recalled the amount of opposition which was raised by local residents against the non-conformist format of the school.

He added, "It eventually disappeared."

While Talcott stated that he definitely does not agree with the philosophy behind the Institute for the Study of Non-violence, he said that if there is a minority viewpoint on an issue then certainly that minority voice should be heard.

Variety of fire runs keep local firemen hopping

Members of the Carmel Valley Volunteer Fire Department were called b the Franklin Peace residence on Via Contenta to investigate smoke found it to be coming from a closed fireplace damper.

Fire units sped to the Mobile Service Station Del Fino Place and West Carmel Valley Road October 20 at 7:18 p.m. where spilled gas had ignited at the base of a gas pump. The flame was controlled with fire extinguishers with no damage resulting.

A reported grass fire on Rancho and Middle Canyon Roads October 21 at 10:20 a.m. checked out to be an incinerator fire.

Three small spot fires of leaves and grass were discovered October 22 on County right of way property near the Kelley residence on West Carmel Valley Road. No damage resulted and the cause was undetermined.

October 25 at 4:07 a.m. the Fire Department was called to Ford Road where reports of calls for help were heard. Unable to find anyone, they checked with the Sheriff's Office who had picked up a person who was intoxicated.

White Oaks Theatre was the scene of a small fire November 2 at 9:45 a.m. when a defective coffee pot cord ignited items stored in a cabinet under a sink in a dressing room. Damage was estimated at $150.

A short in a switch on an electric range took firemen to the H.W. Ayers residence at 2:10 p.m., November 2.

Ambulance makes several calls on local emergencies

The Red Cross Ambulance operated by members of the Carmel Valley Volunteer Fire Department was called to the Luther Washington residence on Ford Road where their 18 month old daughter, Elaine, required oxygen. The first aid crew remained with the patient until a physican arrived. The ambulance was called later in the evening to transport the infant to the Community Hospital. The first call was received at 5:30 p.m. October 29, the second call at 11:30 p.m.

Patricia Lewis of Esquiline Road who was involved in a single car accident when blinded by headlights on a curve on Ford Road was taken to the Community Hospital by members of the Carmel Valley Volunteer Fire Dept. The patient suffered multiple bruises and a fractured hand. The alarm sounded at 2:30 a.m., October 31.

Two San Francisco museums visited in AFA bus tour

Photography, Southwest Indain Arts and "Continental Table Porcelain of the Eighteenth Century," including twelve table settings, offered a wide diversification of artistic appeal for Peninsulites taking the AFA bus tour today to two San Francisco museums.

M.H. De Young Memorial Museum is showing the George Eastman House Photographic exhibition and rare porcelain tableware designed during the "Golden Age of European Porcelain" as that period of the Eighteenth Century was called. It was an era which produced the most lavish tableware from famous factories in Germany, France, Italy, Spain and Denmark.

The George Eastman House Photographic show presents the first 64 years of the Twentieth Century, pictorially, by some of the world's outstanding photographers. The exhibition was first shown at the New York World's Fair in 1964 where it was widely acclaimed.

Indian Arts of the Southwest at the California Palace of the Legion of Honor is a huge exhibition contained in six galleries. Over 700 items are on display of pottery; jewelry with turquoise, coral and tortoise shell; paintings; metal work and kachina dolls.

A smorgasbord luncheon at the Pine Tree Restaurant gave tour-takers a breather between the two museums.

A rare exhibition of Ethiopain paintings from the collection of Dr. and Mrs. Linden Leavitt, Jr. of Pebble Beach will be shown by the Peninsula Chapter of the American Federation of Arts in its gallery on Lincoln St. in Carmel from November 6 through November 30.

The paintings to be shown were collected from all parts of the Ethiopian Empire by Dr. Leavitt when he was Dean of the Extension Division of Haile Selassie University in Addis Ababa from 1962 to 1964. They reflect both old and new forms of church decorations, the only source of true folk painting in Ethiopia. Although lack of research makes it difficult to establish dates and sources, rough estimates date some of the older pieces from the 16th century. The majority of them are contemporary

There is no admission charge and the public is invited. Gallery hours are: Monday through Friday, 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. and Saturday, 2 p.m. to 5 p.m.

The serene waters of Carmel River lagoon were contemplated by (left) Lee Stewart and Gloria Franklin during a recent field trip taken by Carmel Middle School 7th graders. The water and shore life of both ocean and lagoon were examined by over 200 students in the science classes.

staff of Casa Manana as associate consultant. Mrs. Constans will handle the traditional design requirements of Casa Manana customers.

Mrs. Constans is a member of the American Institute of Interior Design (A.I.D.) and received her professional training at Parsons of New York with post graduate study at Parsons in Paris. She has lectured at universities throughout the west and was director of the interior design studio at Frederick and Nelson's in Seattle.

Carmel Women's Club to hear talk November 15 on Children's books

"How to lead a child to books and how do you choose a book?" will be the topic which Martha Bruggeman of "The Magic Fishbone" will discuss at the Carmel Woman's Club on November 15.

After many years of teaching in schools and courses taken on children's literature, Mrs. Bruggeman decided to open a store dealing exclusively with the children's world of books. Although they said it couldn't be done she now enjoys a world-wide reputation with requests coming from mothers living in such remote spots as Africa, Alaska and Okinawa who have complete confidence in her choice of literature for children.

Tea will be served following the meeting.

All Saints' Church readies old fashioned Xmas bazaar

The "Old Fashioned Christmas Bazaar" at All Saints' Episcopal Church will take place on Tuesday, November 16, from 10 a.m. until 4 p.m. in the church parish hall at Lincoln and Ninth, Carmel.

Co-chairmen of the Bazaar are Mrs. Ronald Rico and Mrs. William Sanford.

The sewing guild will feature stuffed animals, aprons and some 200 outfits for Barbie Dolls. The Fair Ladies will have unique Christmas decorations for sale and the St. Ursula Circle will have handmade toys and gifts.

Some of the other booths at the Bazaar include jewelry, pantry shelf, Christmas cards, antiques, a Silent Auction, garden plants, candies, portraits and cook. In the patio a fish pond will be set up for the children. There will also be a fresh vegetable stand in the patio.

Luncheon and a fashion show will begin at 12:30 with mothers of the Episcopal Day school serving. Mrs. John Rennel, Mrs. Charles Felder and Mrs. Donald Hays are in charge of preparing the food.

Mrs. Richard Murtland and Mrs. Jack Stein are co-chairmen of the fashion show.

Eight models from the congregation will model fashions from Kramers of Carmel.

Mrs. Sidney Williams is in charge of ticket sales for the luncheon - fashion show. Anyone wishing to purchase a ticket may call 624-5102 or 624-3883. Baby sitting service will be available.

From 2 until 4 p.m. tea will be served by St. Barnabas Circle.

Mrs. Karl Scherer is in charge of the decorations which will portray the "Old Fashioned Christmas" theme.

The Valley at LARGE

Comings and goings of people you know...

Nine young members of the CV Trail and Saddle Club had an exciting time last weekend when they attended two performances of the Grand National Live Stock Exhibition, Horse Show and Rodeo at the Cow Palace in San Francisco. Fred Nason Jr., Cindy, Diana and Judy Young, Donna Carter, Debbie LeGrand, Martha Ziegler and Kris Swanson saw both the Friday night show and the Saturday matinee.

The youngsters were chaperoned by Mr. and Mrs. Bob Angell, Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Young and Jim Ziegler.

The gala all-expense-paid weekend was given to the nine children as the top award as the final winners in the summer series of Playdays held at the Trail and Saddle Club.

When Lurline passengers approached the Hawaiian Island of Maui last Saturday, they were heralded by "mermaids" on the outlying rocks playing a welcome tune on conch shells. The occasion was the annual Lurline Day and "Whaling Spree" at Lahaina. As part of the celebration, Tim and Peggy Morrow (the former Peggy Porter Marquard) organized a gigantic art show on the lawn in front of the library. Tim and Peggy have been the guiding lights in establishing the Lahaina Art Center where many of the island artists contribute their time as class instructors in all forms of arts and crafts.

To help raise funds for the Center, Neil Walker Warner, well known Peninsula artist, donated her painting "Red Ginger" to be given as a prize to the person holding the winning ticket in a benefit sale which is progressing at the present time. Mrs. Warner recently spent alot of time in Mauii and worked with the Morrows in the Art Center.

Weekend guests at the home of Mrs. Warren Higby were Lafayette visitors, Mrs. Walter Scammel and daughter, Virginia, and Mrs. Higby's daughter, Mrs. Wilson. Other guests included Mrs. Higby's grandson, Warren, a student at St. Mary's Prep School in Berkeley and Mrs. Thomas Tifft of Leisure World, Seal Beach, Mrs. Tifft is a former resident of Ford Road. Saturday evening everyone attended the performance of "The Innocents" at White Oaks Theatre.

Stanley T.B. Johnson, Jr., who has been serving as a corpsman in the Navy, is on leave, visiting his parents, Co. and Mrs. S.T.B. Johnson of Robles del Rio. He has been serving as a hospital attendent a Bethesda, Maryland and will now go to the Navy Field Medical School at Camp Pendleton for basic training in the Marine Corps.

After completing that training he will be assigned to the U.S. Forces in Viet Nam.

Jett and Frank Porter have returned to the Valley after a glorious month in the Hawaiian Islands. Their cottage in Maui was directly on the beach, only 20 feet from the water. They reported that the island is still lovely and peaceful, but growing rapidly with new hotels still going in.

ABOVE -- Mr. and Mrs. Dick Fraser of Robles del Rio prepare to leave their table at the conclusion of Senator Murphy's address.

BELOW -- Dr. and Mrs. Toley Doud joined friends from Salinas at the Republican Fund Raising dinner held last Thursday at the Carmel Valle y Golf and Country Club. They were among those who had to be seated in an adjacent room because of the overflow crowd which attended.

Road Dept warns drivers of CV Road construction work

Supervisor Thomson J. Hudson announces that the Monterey County Road Department will lay an asphalt concrete blanket on the Los Laureles Grade Road between Robley Road and the Carmel Valley Road between Los Laureles Grade Road and Village Drive.

Work began Tuesday, November 2. During construction both roads will be open to traffic, subject to short delays. The public is requested to drive with caution observing construction signs and the flagmen who will be directing traffic.

Chapel Guild Christmas Fair plans under way

Plans for the "Valley Christmas Fair," sponsored by the Community Chapel Guild, are rushing along at a fast pace under the guidance of organization chairman, Mrs. Richard Lee. The benefit will be held at Fellowship Hall of the Church on Saturday, December 4, from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m.

Mrs. Loring Warner is publicity chairman and Mrs. Thomas McKiernon and Mrs. John Power are in charge of hostesses.

A great variety of booths will offer goodies to the Christmas buyer. Mrs. Lee reports that the chairmen are busily working on their projects. The Cookbooks and stationery booth is being planned by Mrs. Elbert Wade and Christmas cards and wrappings by Mrs. Frank Graham. The bake Goods booth is under Mrs. Larry Busick, coffee and punch will be handled by Mrs. Ralph Updike, and sandwiches by Mrs. Charles Hunt.

The booth specializing in candy, jam, jelly and condiment is being planned by Mrs. Jay Rathbun and the Treasure Chest by Mrs. Leon Amyx. Mrs. Irving Ollason is busily working on the booth for Christmas decorations and Mrs. Joe Murphy is planning the booth for gifts.

Mrs. William Lifson is handling the plant department and Mrs. Robert Staples, the children's table. Mrs. Kirk Gayman and Mrs. Jack Day are co-chairman of the fish pond and Mrs. Don Johnson is in charge of baby sitting facilities.

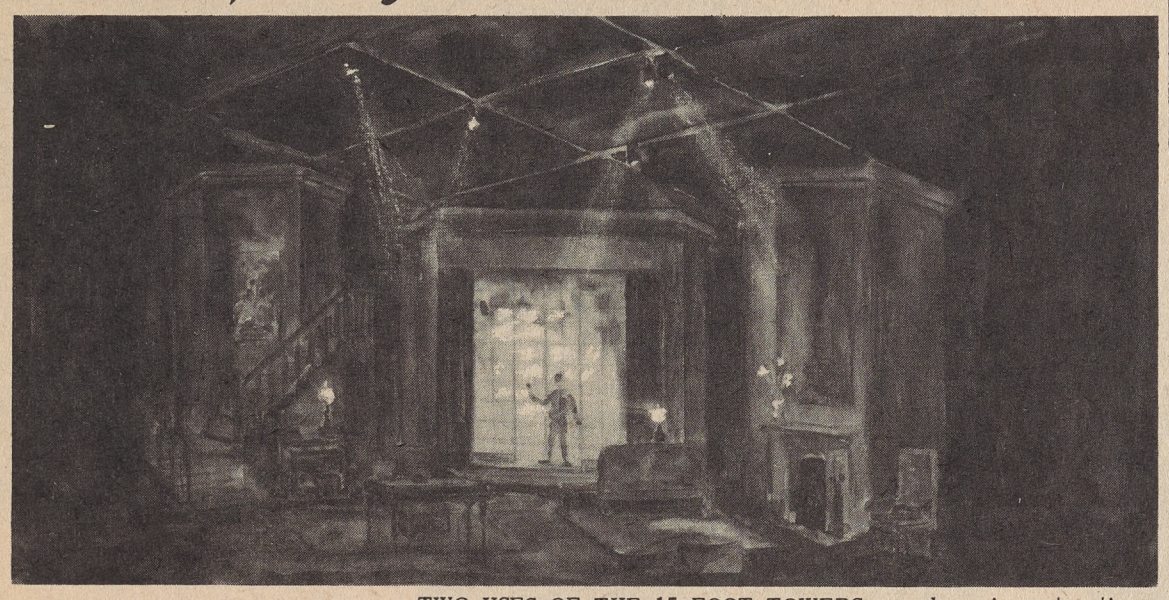
Towers of many uses at White Oaks Theatre



TWO USES OF THE 15-FOOT TOWERS are shown in contrasting drawings from the board of Joan Larkey, set designer for White Oaks Theatre. The upper drawing is the set for "The Innocents," and the lower drawing shows the same towers used in a different concept for "Max's room," one of the five set changes in "The Affairs of Anatol," which opens on Friday. The movable tower units make the intricate set changes possible with a minimum of effort.

'Affairs of Anatol' to open Friday

In a recent interview with Joan Larkey, set designer, and Tom Gruenewald, director, of White Oaks Theatre, they told the Outlook details of the exciting set concept they have developed for the winter season.

Rumors began circulating before the production of "The Innocents" about the "Towers" that would be used. However, many who saw that show were not aware that it had already been done. Although the set appears to be a standard box type, it is made of three separate units. The two side pieces are seven sided towers, 15 feet high, with two floors, and in the case of "The Innocents," a two-story staircase.

The towers were stationary in the first production, however in "The Affairs of Anatol," which opens this Friday, the concept has been enlarged to provide five different sets. The mammouth structures will be revolved by backstage crews and the various sides will be combined to provide the different changes.

The idea of using these flexible mobile units is not completely original with her, Joan said. "But," she added, "the towers are so very right for White Oaks because they fit with the design of the building in a classic way."

In one part of the "Anatol" set, one side is left open so that the inside space is used to make a small anteroom.

Both Joan and Tom have had a great deal of experience in New York theater and they believe that being able to work in one theater long enough to get the feel and potential of it is extremely important.

This is impossible there.

Although directing is more difficult in sets of this type, Tom emphatically stated, "I love it! It is much more of a challenge! The building here in the Valley is so flexible that entirely different ideas can be employed," He added, "While the sets may appear to be realistic to the audience in theater terms, they are not. They test the imagination of the viewer who does the work of making them fit within his own mind."

It should be interesting to see the difference between the "Innocents" English country house and the oppulent Viennese background of "Affairs of Anatol."

In conclusion, Joan stated, "There is not one piece of furniture that isn't used by the actors. A chaise even doubles as a widewalk in an exterior scene."

This is flexibility beyond comprehension!

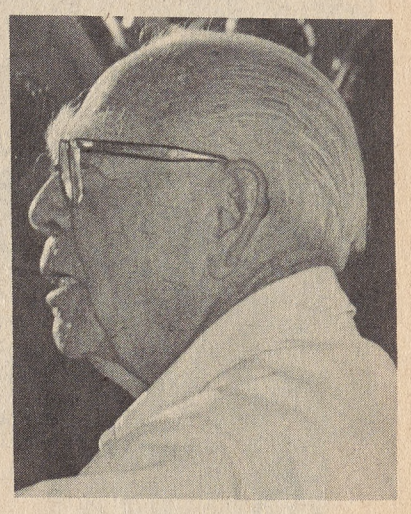
Local Pulitzer Prize writer

Martin Flavin to speak on 'The Moribund Theatre'



Martin Flavin, Pulitzer Prize winning author and playwright from Cachagua, will speak at White Oaks Theatre on Sunday, November 14, on "The Moribund Theatre," or "Death at 8:30."

The lecture is the second in the Sunday series sponsored by the Theatre Guild on opening weekends of new plays during the White Oaks winter season. Mr. Flavin's talk, which will begin at 4:30, is free to the public and promises to be a most thought-provoking commentary on modern day theatre.

Tularcitos carnival a howling success

THE BALLOON CLOWN, Beverly Doud, found many buyers for her wares during the carnival. One little spook bought ten!

The costume parade at the Tularcitos Halloween Carnival showed a fantastic and frightening degree of originality in costumes produced. Three winners were picked in each of five catagories.

Winners in the Spookiest division were Scott Weymeyer, first; Vaughn Carter, second; and Brian Hackenberger, third.

The dice, portrayed by Scarlett and Shane Hattan won first place in the most unusual catagory with Christi Cordrey placing second and Winifred Reuter coming in third.

In the prettiest division Leslie Drew won a first place ribbon as a Siamese Temple Princess, with Amy Lou Stuart placing second and Kathy Baker taking third place.

Mollie O'Neal dressed as Grandma Moses and walked off with the first place as the most authentic. Matt Wesley as Napoleon took second place and Tim Cordrey took third place in the division for his costume as the Tin Woodman.

The three winners in the funniest catagory were Mike Jones, first; Joanne Samuels, second; and Mary Ray, third.

ABOVE - Count Dracula, in the person of Clancy Van Horn, lifts the squeaky lid to his coffin for a visit with patrons of the Spook House. His frightening weird eye makeup was activated by black light, and without a doubt made him the number 1 Spook of the night.

AT LEFT - Top Hatted clown, Audrey Cordrey, (did you guess who she was in last week's Outlook?) shares a glance at the costume parade with an unidentified small fellow clown.

MARION TOWNSEND works against the clock on items for the St. Dunstan's Christmas Bazaar with the constant reminder close by in the form of a poster. The bazaar will be held at the Community Center from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. on November 20.

St. Dunstan's plans Christmas bazaar at CV Community Center

Work sessions are being held like mad to finish the many items which will be offered for sale in the booths at the annual St. Dunstan's Christmas Bazaar, to be held November 20 at the Carmel Valley Community Center. Mrs. Philip Walker, general chairman (for the fourth or fifth year...she can't remember which) has announced that the bazaar will open its doors at 10 a.m. and remain open until 3 p.m. on that Saturday.

Luncheon will be served from 11:30 until 2 p.m. and will cost $1.25 as it has in previous years. The menu will consist of a choice of ham or barbecued beef, macaroni and cheese or beans, choice of carrot, pineapple gelatin salad or cole slaw, rolls, and dessert and coffee.

A new booth this year is the Stocking Gift and Wrappings booth which is under the imaginative direction of Mrs. Mel Blevens and Mrs. Earle Wilsey.

Mrs. Walker reports that the Christmas stockings are absolutely beautiful and there is a lovely afghan made by Mrs. Nora Thompson. Original log carriers have been made for the bazaar and the MAYTAGS group have been making fireplace logs out of newspapers to sell at the event.

Chairmen for the food booth are Mrs. Ned Sinclair and Mrs. Edwin McPhee, arts and crafts chairmen are Mrs. Harry Townsend, Mrs. Daniel Coleman, and Mrs. Gordon Brown. The holiday booth is being organized by Mrs. Philip Mothersill, Mrs. M. A. Quinto and Mrs. George Clifford. Mrs. Nora Thompson and Mrs. Isobel Thompson are co-chairmen of the Kiddy Korner. The needlework booth is managed by Mrs. Rudolph Ploense, Mrs. Ruth Hern and Miss Avis Frink and the lovely fresh plants and vegetable s will be arranged and displayed by Mrs. Joseph Murphy and Mrs. Reginald Walker.

MPC to show Polish movie

"Baltic Express," a 1959 award-winning Polish film, will be shown at Monterey Peninsula College twice on Friday, November 12. Two screenings are scheduled in the MPC Music Hall, at 7 and 9 p.m.

Free tickets for either showing, (limited to two per request) will be available at the college administration building switchboard from November 5. Mail requests will be honored when accompanied by stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Carmel Board of Realtors to install new officers

A dinner dance tonight at the Carmel Valley Golf and Country Club will herald the installation of new officers of the Carmel Board of Realtors. The ceremonies will take place after dinner which will begin at 7:30 There will be no speakers, with the installation being the only business conducted. After the ceremonies guests will dance to the music of Neil Armstrong's Combo until midnight.

George Conn will be installed as president of the board with Jack Martin serving as vice-president. May Youngberg will assume the duties of secretary and treasurer.

Charles McEwen and H. Wesley Ball will be installed for three year terms on the board of directors.

Art Strasberger, Jr. and Skip Marquard will take the positions of two year members and Claire Cross will serve for a one year term.

The new officers will be installed by Theil Hampton, outgoing president of the California Real Estate Association from District 10.

George Conn, Skip Marquard and Charles McEwen have also been appointed to serve as state directors on the California Real Estate Association for 1966 and Robert Ross has been appointed as state delegate.

Co-op nursery to add equipment

Mrs. Michael Joyet and Mrs. George Jennings were co-hostesses for the Carmel Valley Cooperative Nursery School's November 2 business meeting.

The group authorized the expenditure of $200 for the purchase of new equipment for the school and planned field trips for the children.

One such expedition to visit a farm and watch the milking and feeding of a dairy cow is planned for the nursery school youngsters if someone will volunteer a "moo-cow's" services. If anyone has a milk cow which the children can visit please call Mrs. Bambi Nicholsen at 659-2642.

THE FABULOUS BALLROOM SCENE from the Salzburg Festival color production of "Der Rosenkavalier" is depicted here in advance of the presentation of the famous opera at the Steinbeck Theatre. There will be four performances only on Dec. 1 and Dec. 2, matinee at 2, evening at 8. All seats will be reserved. Elizabeth Schwarzkopf sings and Herbert Von Karajan conducts the Strauss masterpiece.

What happens when you hit 90 mph in a Volvo 1800S?

For one thing, you use no more gas than you would in a Volkswagen at 70 mph. For another, you haven't reached top speed. For still another, you relax because you're driving a car that Road & Track magazine describes like this, "The 1800 S is a very civilized touring car for people who want to travel rapidly in style, a Gran Turismo car of the type much in the news these days—but at a price that many people who cannot afford a Ferrari or Aston Martin will be able to pay." One more thing: you don't have to drive an 1800 S 90 mph in order to enjoy it. Any legal speed limit will do. Come in and see what we mean.

Under the Oaks and Among the Cacti

By Mildred Hattan

Congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. Robert E. Davis, West Carmel Valley Road and Country Club Drive whose daughter, Laura Janene arrived at 1:30 a.m. November 3. Little Miss Davis, who has been the object of a "think pink" campaign by family and friends for weeks, weighed 8 lbs 2 oz. on the Community Hospital scales. Laura's brother, Loren, is a five year old kindergarten student at Tularcitos. Her grandparents, all residents of Pacific Grove, are Mrs. Edgar Palmer and Mr. and Mrs. William E. Davis.

Mrs. Don Laird is the new manager of JoAnne's Boutique. Mary, who was at one time associated with Joanne's Sportwear Shop, is well known to Valley residents. She and her husband, Don, have lived in the Valley for five years and she was most recently employed at Bowers Pharmacy.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Dresser of 5 Barbara Way entertained Mrs. Dresser's sister, Mrs. William Mehrter, of Walnut Creek last week. On Thursday their niece, Mrs. Donnell Graham and a party of four arrived from Danville to join Mrs. Dresser and Mrs. Mehrter in attending the "Holiday Foods and Fancies" party.

The Sky-Blue-Bird group celebrated Halloween with a mask party at the Community Center. The fifteen little girls made their own masks and enjoyed refreshments under the supervision of their leaders, Mrs. Glen Lowe and Mrs. Brian Platter

Friends were happy to hear that Leo Berta was able to return to his Valley home where he is recuperating from surgery.

Valley ballet students were privileged to view the film "An Evening with the Royal Ballet" starring Margot Fonteyn and Rudolph Nurvyev last week. Angene Feves accompanied students Barbara Gene Makinster, Dorothy Collins and George Gray to Salinas. Sherry Yokomizo of the Studio of Dance Arts (formerly Patricia Ramsey's studio) escorted Julie and Elaine Bennett to Monterey.

Mrs. W.H. Sears 74 Upper Circle has returned from a vacation spent in Phoenix, Arizona getting acquainted with her new grandson and visiting his parents, Renee and Frank Melindo. Enroute home she made a buying tour of Palm Springs for her Valley businesses Joanne's Sportswear & Boutique.

Home on a month's leave is Captain Gary Loban of 73 Lower Circle. Captain Loban, an Army helicopter pilot, his wife, Marie, and children Lee and Grant, were stationed in Anchorate, Alaska. They have purchased the former Cal Garner residence which they share with Capt. Loban's mother, Mrs. Gilbert Wall and daughter Karla.

Religious Freedom subject of talk at Sodality meeting

Fr. Juan Oronoz spoke at the Tuesday meeting of the Sodality of Our Lady of Mt. Carmel on Religious Freedom. His discussion touched on the Vatican Council II, the Pope's recent visit to the United States and the significance of the new attitude toward religious freedom.

The Friday "Sale-O-Rama" sponsored by the Sodality is their main fund raising project whose proceeds are used for the church and parish. The weekly sale is held from 1-4 p.m. at the church. Mrs. George Garner is in charge of staff. Anyone having used items that they wish to contribute are asked to call Mrs. Louis Allaire, 659-2752, Mrs. William Neidinger 659-2184, or Mrs. Erasimo Belleci at 659-2089.

Collection of etchings on exhibition through Dec. at Dooley Gallery

An exhibit of etchings, probably one of the finest collections in Northern California outside of a museum, is being shown in the Dooley Gallery now through Dec. 30. A preliminary showing of smaller etchings in the group was recently shown, but now the entire collection is on hand in the gallery.

This group of etchings was originally gathered by the late R. V. Smutny, himself an artist, father of Professor Robert Smutny of the University of the Pacific, who made this collection available since the death of his father last winter.

Mr. Smutny was born in Bohemia and at an early age decided to become an artist. After coming to New York he was advised that photography would be a better paying occupation than painting and he proceeded to become proficient in this field. Several books were published using his photographs, one depicting the architecture and design symbols in the Nebraska State capitol.

Along with his other work Mr. Smutny containued to paint and became well known for his portraits and copies of masterpieces in the Metropolitan museum. Some of these are also being shown in the Dooley Gallery at this time.

Many of the etchings are in color and some are quite large, giving almost the appearance of paintings. French and Czechoslovakian artists are represented.

Marlinde VonRuhs paintings shown

A preview of Marlinde Von Ruhs' (Mrs. Merle Armitage) new one-man-show at the Carmel Art Association Beardsley Room was held last Thursday. The show will hang from November 4 through December 2.

The new monthly exhibit by artist members of the association may been seen in the Gallery during the same time. Sculptor Arch Garner served as chairman of the selections and hanging committee for this month's show.

Gonzales paintings exhibited at MPC

An exhibition of the work of Alex Gonzales of Carmel, Monterey Peninsula College art instructor and well-known painter, will open Monday at the Hartnell College Art Gallery, 156 Homestead Ave., Salinas, to continue on view through November 24.

Planned primarily for student study, the show illustrates the development of painting the human figure. Included are drawings which "approach or precede" paintings, as well as paintings "which would be the result of such exercises," according to Gonzales.

HERBERT BLANKS, MAYOR OF CARMEL, left, performs the ribbon-cutting honors at grand opening ceremonies for Wells Fargo Bank's new Carmel Office headquarters Saturday, Nov. 6. Thomas L. Craig, vice president and manager of the branch, right, was host to an open house and inspection of the new bank premises throughout the afternoon. The office opened officially for business Monday, Nov. 8.

Paris highlighted in 2 films at Tantamount

Two films worthy of special interest are being screened this weekend at the Tantamount Theatre in Carmel Valley, Friday and Saturday nights at 8:40.

Featured is "Paris - 1900", described as a full-length grand tour of the century to the outbreak of World War I. Employing actual footage of the time, it shows a gleaming new Eiffel Tower completed for the 1889 Exposition, scenes of daily life with many entertaining sequences of cabaret and music hall night life, as well as spectacular views of the city itself, encounters with its great personalities: Sarah Bernhardt, Rodin, Maurice Chevalier, Renoir, Andre Gide. Famous moments from George Melie's trick films are included.

English adaptation is by John Mason Brown. Narration in English by Monty Woolley.

A short comedy "Paris Weekend" (1958) completes the bill. Taking a new look at the silent screen technique, it shows the August evacuation of Parisians for a country weekend. An inventive sound track substitutes for dialogue.

Aboard U.S.S. Kittyhawk

CV Outlook Publisher describes inside view of aircraft carrier

(EDITOR'S NOTE: This is a dispatch from Publisher Bill Norton aboard the U.S.S. Kitty Hawk, one of the Navy's biggest aircraft carriers on a 8-day orientation cruise to Pearl Harbor with 12 other California and Utah newsmen).

This U.S. Navy, from an inside-the-U.S.S. Kitty Hawk Carrier view, is many things.

It's a double deck of about 80 beautifully functional, gracefully dangerous warplanes.

It's a prayer rendered at 10 p.m. through the ship on the loudspeaker system.

It's a very human, persuasive Capt. M.S. "Red" Carmody, big rugged, ex-San Jose State grid star.

It's a couple of local kids, seamen now, who have mixed feelings about the Navy, but would follow their captain anywhere. Both are looking ahead to getting out, although one is enthusiastic about his signalman's post high up on top of the signal bridge.

It's tall, lean, greying Cmdr. Slaughter, engineering officer, who volunteered from the Reserves, because he likes "an impossible job" and he likes and is liked by his prideful boys in the heat and fury of the 125° engine room with its four giant boilers and snarls of pipes.

It's an intricate mass of sophisticated electronic equipment, including six huge computers worth millions, which are automating some of the airplanes, the tracking with the help of 6 revolving radars of various sizes and shapes on top of the towering "island" the "friendlies" and the "hostiles" aircraft, missiles and surface ships within several 100 miles of ocean surrounding the Kitty Hawk.

It's keen, good-looking, good-natured flyers, and the jaunty, proud men about them.

And the Navy here is 5,200 souls packed too tightly for comfort into this huge floating steel box--a city of men (for it's a man's world and there's been only one pinup visible anywhere), moving into war.

This ship was designed to hold 4,500, but because experience has taught that it's around the clock, all-out effort out in WesPac off Viet Nam and an extra 700 men who have been added should help to relieve the enormous work load.

Problems are the inevitable result of the fantastic size and kaleidoscope variety of responsibilities. Compounding the troubles is the green manpower, for about two-thirds are new to the ship. Result is the long, continuous training aboard, including nearly a "GQ" or general quarters' battle drill daily.

The Kitty Hawk combines the problems of a big Navy ship and a floating airport with its nearly 100 airplanes. The airplanes come first, as demonstrated by the fact that the captain is a flyer and is always on the bridge when aircraft take off or land.

The captain's bridge is one of many exciting spots to observe the ant-hill like activities below. There are a dozen sailors, always in whites for their duty there, and at least half a dozen officers. The slanting surrounding lookout windows have windshield wipers on the outside, for eye visibility is still important, although the revolving, whirling radars just overhead reach out some 200 miles further and the six complex computers digest their information and instantly plot position, altitude and speed of "friendlies" and "hostiles," too.

The fourth dimension aboard an aircraft carrier like the U.S.S. Kittyhawk is noise.

It comes at you day and night from a variety of directions. No doubt dedicated Navymen accept it and get used to it, but this landlubber hasn't yet been oriented to Navy noise on this Navy Orientation Cruise of eight days to Hawaii.

This morning there was no need to leave a call to be wakened by phone in our cabin. For right at the crack of 6 came the mighty roar of a jet furying up, then the fast railroad-car rolling noise of the steam catapault pulling the airplane along 250 feet and the whomp as the machinery was braked to a halt in a mere five feet in the water brake all this immediately on top of our heads on the flight deck floor which is our cabin ceiling.

An officer related that he, in a similar spot, got so he could tell exactly what kind of airplanes were landing on top of him by the type of wham they made. The big A6s have a particularly hefty landing hook at their stern and produce the loudest slam-bang crash of all, he said.

My orientation to landings was initiated during an effort to catch a nap after lunch. The nap got away from me abruptly when a plane ground down upon my skull or so it seemed, followed by the sliding whoom and urrcrump of the hook catching and stretching out the landing cable.

There have been moments, in the comparative quiet of the night, when the lurching up and down of the big ship produces creaking and groaning. This is a mighty sturdy vessel, 80,000 tons displacement, the same as the Queen Mary, and rides firmly and sedatley. But one is reminded at these rare creaking moments that the sea is mightier and does a little pushing around, even when the "sea is slight," as the weatherman announces occasionally on the ship's loudspeaker system.

Emitting from the loudspeakers everywhere in the ship are announcements and orders, occasionally preceded by that most nautical shrill whistle, which does snap your mind to attention. During "general quarters" or battle practice, a voice, often Southern and somewhat difficult to understand, gives orders. "Secure your battle stations," which means, "That's all boys, relax."

At 10 p.m. every night a chaplain presents a prayer, a comfortable touch of reassurance that the mighty U.S. military still is humble enough to seek a little help and comfort from further above than its supersonic, high-flying jets can ascend to. The prayer sounds a little canned, coming from the loudspeaker, but life aboard ship is like that anyway.

There aren't portholes in this ship, although there were two--the only two, it is believed--in the captain's suite-like cabin up behind the bridge. This means that there's a forced air ventilation system and also air conditioning, with fans whirling day and night in your ear.

Because the Kitty Hawk is really a huge steel box, the ringing clang of a wrench dropped or just a door slammed is telegraphed far down the walls. Your writer hasn't slept solidly or for very long any night on board, because of the decibel bombardment.

The ultimate noise of noise is the firey, furious, unholy roar of a blow-torch-like jet airplane, helling it off the deck, trailing its line of smudgy smog behind. Defense is mandatory against this unendurable fury, and protection is the "Mickey Mouse" helmet. This is a cloth helmet with big black plastic ear muffs, which protrude like Mickey Mouse ears.

There are ringing telephones. The huge phone system is in constant use for practical messages everywhere to link up the ship.

At least television aboard a carrier is generally not only without commercials, but without noise at all. The innumerable TV sets scattered around, to give constant and instant inspections of aircraft landings and takeoffs on the flight deck, are silent, but the more dramatic for their pretalky eloquence.

Right now from the hanger deck comes the wild scream of a jet engine being tested. The powerful vibration tingles right through the solid steel of the ship, and you somehow give a little prayer that the vast power manifest will be contained out there beyond the intervening walls.

It's true! The annual survey of the California Public Utilities Commission, just released, shows that the combined monthly charges for natural gas, electric and telephone service in San Francisco are the lowest of the 25 largest cities in the nation. PG&E rates in other cities are correspondingly low! Because providing you with dependable gas and electric service at low rates is our most important job, we're mighty proud to take this means of reporting to you that we're doing it better than ever.

The Sheriff's Blotter

By REX PRYER

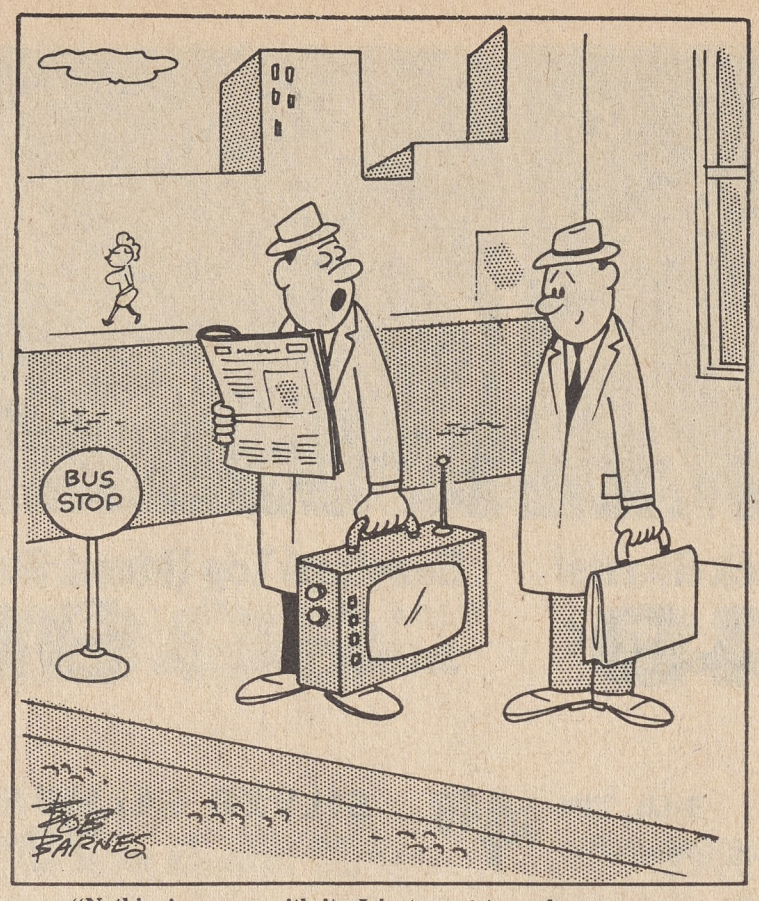
There were numerous reports of Halloween vandalism reported, but none was serious enough to be recorded.

OCTOBER 25 - The manager of Hacienda Carmel reported three fire extinguishers stolen, total value was $135.

OCTOBER 27 - A resident of La Paloma in RDR reported having a Viet Nam doll. The Sheriff's Dept. and a Fort Ord ordnance team checked it out and found it safe.

OCTOBER 29 - An employee of the Union Oil Station at Carmel Rancho shopping center reported a group of juveniles attempting to start a Granite Construction Co. catapillar. He chased them as they got it started and they left in a grey-over-white 56 Oldsmobile.

OCTOBER 28 - The head cook at the Carmel High School Cafeteria reported that the one dollar bill-changer in the cafeteria, owned by Canteen Service had been stolen with its contents of $200. Thieves had also taken a hand dolly with which to transport it. The changer had been bolted to the floor in four places with 3/8 inch bolts and it was uprooted by brute force, probably with crow bars. It appeared to have been wheeled out the back door and into a waiting car. The dolly was found in the vicinity several days later.



"Nothing's wrong with it—I just want to make sure some housework gets done today."

OCTOBER 31 - Two 13 year old boys were found asleep in the Carmel Valley Post Office at 4:30 a.m. They had been to the Tularcitos Halloween Carnival and were supposed to go home with a friend who lived in Robles del Rio, according to the boys. They became separated and did not know where he lived. When it became too cold to stay outside they went into the P.O. and went to sleep. Deputy returned them to their parents who did not appear to be concerned, and warned them that another such happening would result in their being transported to Juvenile Hall.

CVPOA membership now 425 and rising

CVPOA's Membership Campaign is reaping a most satisfactory harvest and still going strong. Membership is now over 425 and applications (which were mailed out with President Tyner's membership appeal letter) are still being received. If you have forgotten to mail your application do it today. (See Ad Page 6). Board of Directors will meet at the Community Center on Thursday November 11th at 8:P.M. Members are welcome to attend.

tained Wednesday at her Scarlett Road home with a "Thank You" tea for all those who had volunteered their services to make the drive a sucess. A figure of $11,287 which is 83% of ther quota were reported by Mrs. Mark Hattan, chairman of Carmel Valley residential collection. Among Valleyites present at the tea were Mrs. Rex Pryer, vice chairman of the Upper Valley, Mrs. David Erskine, Mrs. Tom Bottarro, Mrs. William Edwards, and Mrs. Don Brill.

Welcome home to Rae and Jack Black of Panetta Road. The Blacks spent two weeks with their families at Springville and Provo, Utah. On a deer hunting trip out of Provo with his brother and wife, Jack was lucky enough to fill his deer tag. The Valleyites drove to Utah through Yosemite, over the Tioga Pass, via Escalente, Hell's Back Bone and Boulder Mountain where they encountered snow. The country borders on that of Bryce Canyon and the travelers felt that the color and beauty was comparable to Grand Canyon.

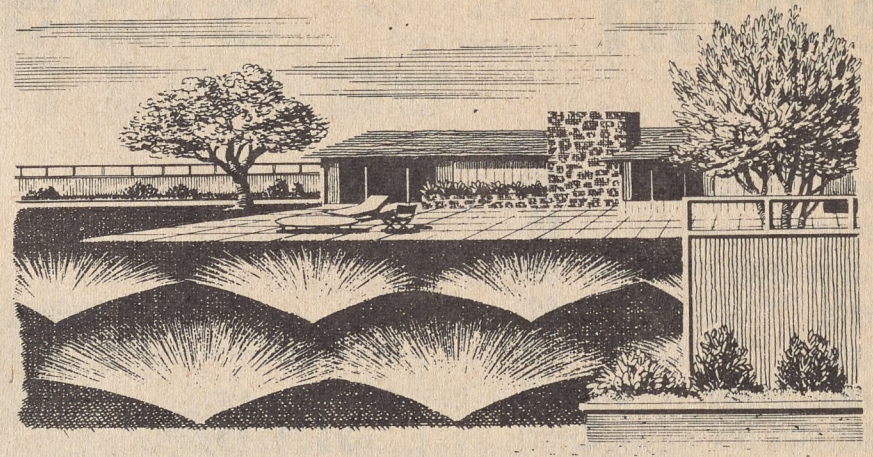
How to do it better with WATER



KEEP IT GREEN WITH WATER...

The best care for your lawn is regular and proper watering. An underground lawn sprinkling system is the most efficient method, and can save you money on your water bill too. A variety of sprinkler heads are available and you can even install disappearing heads that pop up out of the lawn when the water is turned on. You can have a metal, rubber or plastic hose system installed in a short time, and without tearing up your lawn.

Electrically powered pumps of California Water & Telephone Company are used where necessary to assure you of adequate pressure to operate your sprinkler system. They pump thousands of gallons of water each day and send it through hundreds of miles of pipes. These automatically controlled pumps provide the vital heartbeat that keeps water flowing in the lifelines of the system. Maintaining these pumps and their associated equipment is just one of the many unseen, day-to-day jobs California Water & Telephone Company does to bring safe, fresh water to you.

RUDOLPH'S Presents . . .

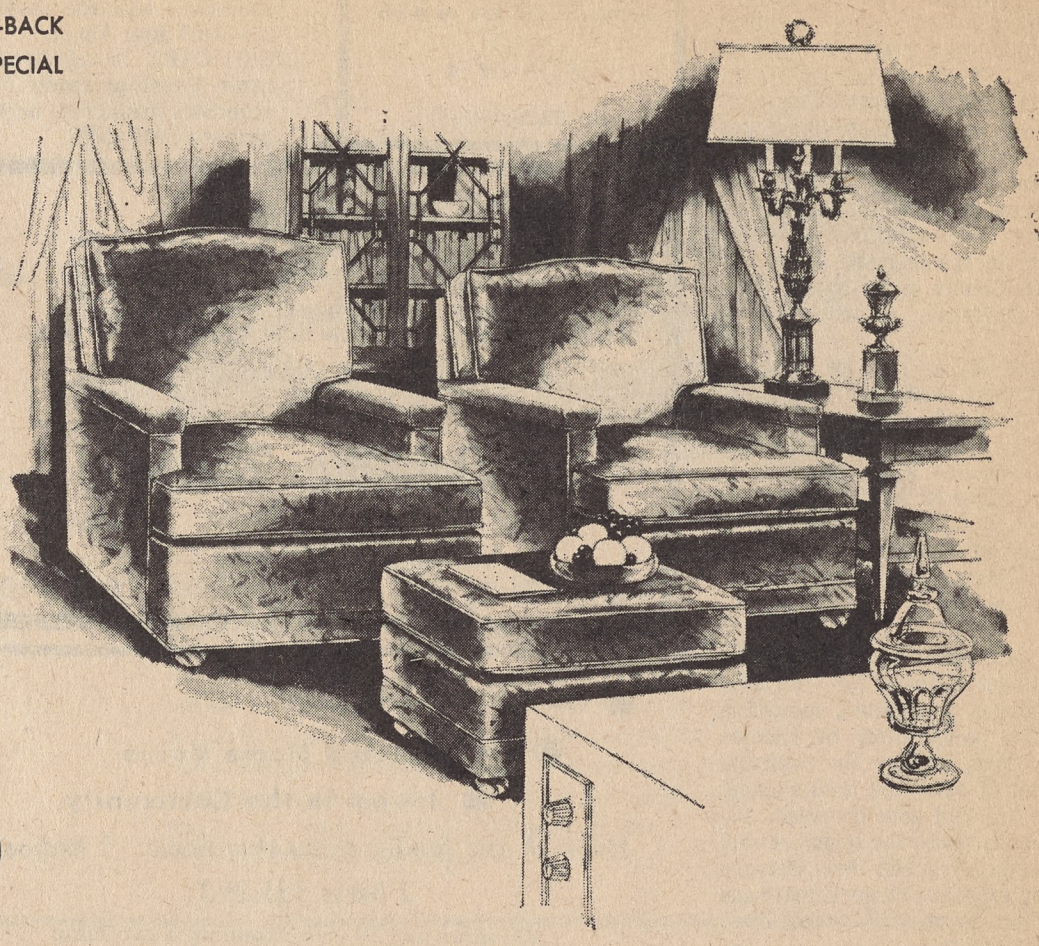
A Holiday Special . . .

. . . CONSISTING OF YOUR FAVORITE MR. AND MRS. PILLOW-BACK LOUNGE CHAIRS COMPLETE WITH OTTOMAN, ALL THREE AT A SPECIAL SAVINGS FOR THE COMING HOLIDAYS.

Of course, your man of the house will find his "Mister" Chair full of deep comfort and pillow-back softness, even if he is six feet tall. Although they look like a matching pair, the Mrs. Chair is scaled slightly smaller to give comfortable and proper seating for even the tiniest woman.

Naturally, Rudolph's high standard of quality is followed throughout every step of expert construction and tailoring, right down to the ball casters on each piece for ease of movement and protection of your carpet.

So come in tomorrow and try our Holiday Special, you'll be glad you did. (and so will your husband.)



Mr. Chair $199.50
Mrs. Chair $189.50
Ottoman $70.00
Regular $459.50

3 Pieces . . $399.00
Allow 3-4 weeks for delivery.

A member of our decorating staff will be happy to assist you in your selections of just the right fabric and color to complement your room.
